The trustees who are also directors of the charity for the purposes of the Companies Act 2006, present their report with the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31 December 2019. The trustees have adopted the provisions of Accounting and Reporting by Charities: Statement of Recommended Practice applicable to charities preparing their accounts in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (FRS 102) (effective 1 January 2019).

The HOPING Foundation is a charitable company limited by guarantee, incorporated on 6th October 2006 and registered as a charity on 1st October 2007. It succeeded to the assets and activities of the Hoping Foundation, an unincorporated charity registered 23 April 2003.

The company was established under a memorandum of association, which specifies the objects and powers of the charitable company and it is governed under its articles of association.

OBJECTIVES AND ACTIVITIES

Objectives and Aims

HOPING stands for Hope and Optimism for Palestinians in the Next Generation. The Foundation exists to benefit Palestinian refugee children and their families by means of grants to community projects in refugee camps which are concerned with improving children's lives through education, art, music, social and sporting activities and better health. The grant-funded activities offer Palestinian refugee children creative solutions that can help them to transform their lives for the better. The Foundation shows support and encouragement to these children and gives them a belief in the promise of a better future.

Through awareness raising activities, the Foundation also seeks to advance public awareness about issues relating to Palestinian refugee children and their families. This is achieved through awareness events in the UK, and visits by distinguished delegations to the Middle East, arranged in co-ordination with the United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA). The HOPING for UNRWA committee helps publicise UNRWA's work with Palestinian refugees, especially youth, through awareness events and collaborative projects.

The Foundation maintains a small-scale office for administration and project co-ordination, which includes making grants to specific projects that have been identified by the directors and foundation manager. The directors' grant-making policy also supports and develops the direct fund-raising abilities of community groups in the refugee camps so that they may move towards self-sufficiency. Many of those participating in this effort are volunteers.

The main objectives this year were to continue funding the Foundation's core programmes supporting scholarships, centres supporting Palestinian refugee children, and build awareness in the UK of the challenges and hardships young refugees' face. The directors were keen to continue to outreach to as many disadvantaged Palestinian children and their families as possible. The Foundation's strategy to achieve these objectives was to:

- Maintain a level of fundraising so as to ensure the funds are available for core grant making.

- Seek out community projects in the region which offered support for Palestinian refugee children.

- Continue to raise awareness about these issues, both in the UK, and internationally.

Public Benefit Statement

The charity trustees have complied with their duty to have due regard to the guidance on public benefit published by the Charity Commission. The Foundation's achievements, outlined below, detail how Palestinian refugee children in camps across the Middle East have benefitted from the charity's activities.

ACHIEVEMENT AND PERFORMANCE

During the year, the Foundation raised £99,796 from donations and associated gift aid tax, the sale of merchandise, and bank interest.

The Foundation awarded £113,482 in grants to organisations helping refugee children in Lebanon, Turkey, the occupied Palestinian territories, and the UK. The trustees continue to maintain an outreach network to ensure that Palestinian refugee community associations across the Middle East serving young refugees are aware of the Foundation as a grant-making organisation and the application process involved.

This year, HOPING supported football clubs in the occupied Palestinian West Bank, and a rugby league for refugee boys and girls across Lebanon. Sport is recognised as building respect and self-confidence, as well as providing benefits from teamwork. Due to severe over-crowding and limited open space in Palestinian refugee camps, most sporting activities must take place outside the camps. The grants covered kit and equipment, as well as the cost of hiring pitches, and travel to and from the nearest training fields.

In Ein El Hilweh refugee camp in Lebanon, HOPING sponsored a scouts club for forty girls. The troupe took part in camping trips, received lessons on the drums and flute, and had training in leadership skills, community care, and protecting the environment.

The Foundation continued to support Palestinian refugee children affected by the ongoing conflict in Syria. In southern Turkey, HOPING sponsored educational programmes to provide basic classes in Arabic, Turkish, Maths, Science and IT to hundreds of children, as well as the provision of arts and sports activities.

In refugee camps in the occupied Palestinian West Bank, HOPING sponsored summer camps and 'fun days' during school holidays. Community centres organised a range of activities, including arts and crafts, cooking, sports events, outings to local sites, and extra lessons in English and Maths, with a focus on learning through play.

A central area of HOPING's grant-making is for the core running costs and refurbishment of youth community centres in Palestinian refugee camps as most centres lack the resources to carry out basic repairs. HOPING provided grants for the upkeep of community centres, which this year included the renovation of a rehabilitative room in a centre in Tulkarm camp in the occupied West Bank, to provide specialist equipment for children with autism.

In Burj el-Barajneh refugee camp in Lebanon, HOPING continued to contribute towards the core running of the Al Naqab Centre. This refugee camp, set up by the Red Cross in 1949, suffers from very poor infrastructure, which results in regular flooding. The camp has also absorbed hundreds of additional refugees from Syria, placing pressure on the camp's already strained facilities. Al Naqab is run by young volunteers, and serves hundreds of children in Burj el-Barajneh with a full programme of arts, education and sports activities throughout the year.

HOPING contributed towards the core running costs of the Yafa Cultural Centre in Balata refugee camp, the largest camp in the occupied West Bank. We funded the 'Back to School' programme at the Centre, providing schoolbags filled with books and stationery to over 600 children in the camp, and sponsored revision classes in core subjects for young Palestinian refugees preparing for end of school exams.

In the UK, HOPING funded scholarships for two young Palestinian refugees from Gaza studying at Oxford and Sheffield University, as well as a young refugee from Bethlehem studying at Newcastle University. We continued to provide 'Amal' scholarships to three young Palestinian refugees from Syria and Lebanon. Amal, meaning 'hope' in Arabic, was set up to provide educational grants to Palestinian refugees who are also actively engaged in voluntary work for their community.

In November, HOPING sponsored the film screening of 'Flying Paper', which follows children in Gaza who make and fly their kites, as a grand gesture of hope and determination. Before the start of the film, well-known actors David Morrissey and Esmé Creed-Miles gave readings celebrating the extraordinary spirit of the Palestinian people - especially the younger generation of refugees. The event coincided with the UN's 'International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People', December 2019 marking 70 years since UNRWA was created by the General Assembly. HOPING held the event to shed light on young Palestinian refugees and the predicament they face, along with the resilience and creativity they show.

The Foundation also continued to support a wide range of arts, sports, education, and music activities in refugee camps across the Middle East. Details of the grants made can be found in note 2, and at the charity's website: www.hopingfoundation.org. Through such grants, supporting local educational and social projects for Palestinian children and their families, the Foundation hopes to have made a considerable contribution to the lives of severely disadvantaged refugees this year.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

The directors aim to hold reserves sufficient to enable the Foundation to settle its affairs at any time, in a controlled way, but otherwise to disperse income by way of grants. At the balance sheet date the unrestricted general fund amounted to £208,985.

The directors are happy with this reserve and are engaged in identifying further projects in their area of benefit, to support over the coming years.

FUTURE PLANS

The Foundation aims to continue its fundraising efforts, and to use its unrestricted reserves to carry out grant making and fulfil its charitable aims. The Foundation's key objective is to reach as many disadvantaged Palestinian children and their families as possible in the region, and the directors would like to continue expanding the area of benefit of the Foundation's grants.
