Activities, Achievements & Performance

The purpose of our charity is to help to improve the accessibility and inclusion of adventure sports in Bristol and its surrounding areas. We do this by using a pool of open minded and supportive volunteers to run disability and impairment friendly sessions for rock climbing and parkour. We also partner with sports centers which are experts in their field who help to keep the activity safe.

The reason we do this is because just four in 10 (40%) disabled people feel they are given the opportunity to be as active as they would like to be compared with seven in 10 (71%) nondisabled people [Activity Alliance Annual Disability and Activity Survey (January 2020) Published by Activity Alliance, research undertaken by IFF Research]. We saw a gap in the services available and believe we could provide a service which meets the requirements while keeping children safe in the process. That we know of, we are the first organisation to offer inclusive adventure sports on a regular basis in the South West.

We have two types of session which have been running at regular intervals with a high amount of uptake. These are rock climbing and parkour.

Our rock-climbing sessions involve a participant and a range of either 1-4 trained and inducted volunteers which help them during their climb, although most of the sessions take place on a 1:1 ratio of climbers to volunteers. These sessions take place weekly in a local indoor rock-climbing gym on weekday evenings to allow for routine in young disabled peoples' week.

Our Parkour sessions take place in group format, these have a maximum capacity of 10 young people and run by external instructors. We hire a gymnastics centre for a period of time on an evening once a fortnight. We then allow an external instructor to run a structured session which changes in format based on the people who attend and their requirements.

Our sessions are open to all abilities and ages. Although our primary focus is on providing sessions for young disabled people. We have run a total of 293 climbing and 40 parkour bookings during this period. Because of our work in the charity this many young disabled people have been active on a regular basis where they otherwise might not have been.

We charge a nominal fee for our sessions, just enough to cover our costs. Compared to the market standard for adventure sports our sessions are incredibly cheap. This means we limit how much we add to the already increased costs for raising a disabled child. This means that we haven't had to put a considerable amount of our resources into fundraising.

We had one large scale fundraising event where a group of people, including one of our trustees and a number of our volunteers, took part in a sponsored international cycle ride. With the proceeds of this event, we have been able to remain financially stable as a charity ever since.

As of the time of writing we do not make or provide any grants as a charity. This may change in the future.

Our charity's outputs would not be possible without our volunteers who run the sessions. We have a total of 23 active volunteers, these range in age from 20 to 64 years old. We have a diverse group of volunteers who span different nationalities, genders, and abilities.

Financial Review

Statement of the Charity's Policy on Reserves

The Trustees declare that with the small financial footprint the charity had during this period it is not deemed a necessity to write a policy on reserves.

Details of Any Funds Materially in Deficit

The Trustees declare that the charity had no funds which were materially in deficit at the date of the statement of assets & liabilities.

State of the Charity's Finances

The main sources of income for our charity have been through selling services and through fundraising. We had one grant from another charity, this paired with a successful fundraising event has been enough for us to perform all of our tasks and objects with some money left over to use for the following year.

Any funds left over are to be used to fund the annual running costs of the charity. This includes website subscription and insurance.

There have been no unexpected changes to our initial plans that were created during the charity's inception.
