Structure, governance and management

Description of the charity's trusts

Type of governing document (eg. trust deed, constitution)	Artbox London is a registered Charitable Incorporated Organisation (CIO). It is governed by a constitution which establishes the objects and powers of the charitable organisation.
How the charity is constituted (eg. trust, association, company)	Charitable Incorporated Organisation
Trustee selection methods (eg. appointed by, elected by)	As stated in the constitution, there should be a minimum of three trustees and there is no limit on the maximum number of trustees. The constitution provides a mechanism for elected trustees to retire from office and be re- elected by the members.
	Artbox London's board is made up of individuals who are committed to the organisation's mission and either have previously been volunteers or have a strong connection to assisting people with learning disabilities and autism (PwLDA) and to the arts sector through other life experiences. They bring a skill, energy and experience to Artbox London. Their backgrounds include senior level experience in the legal sector, business, charity, finance, art, education, marketing and advocacy. The trustees periodically consider the skill set and experience necessary for the Board to exercise its roles. If trustees identify the need for a new trustee or if a trustee needs to be replaced (due to retirement or otherwise), the trustees identify potential new candidates, interview the potential trustees to establish their suitability and commitment and check references as needed. The chair of the trustees will meet with the potential trustee, who is then invited to observe the next board meeting. Eligibility confirmation is carried out and obtained and the trustees give up their time voluntarily and receive no benefits from the charity other than where specific expertise and time is required such as fundraising.
	New trustees undergo an orientation where they can attend the Artbox London workshops to familiarise themselves with the charity's mission and meet key staff, volunteers and other trustees. An information pack is provided which includes the constitutional documents, recent certified and management accounts, the business plan and organisational chart and the Charity Commission's information on Responsibilities of Trustees. Trustees are encouraged to attend appropriate external training events where these will facilitate the undertaking of their role.

Risks are regularly reviewed and considered at meetings and, where further action is required, deadlines and responsibilities assigned. The trustees plan to undertake a full risk assessment as part of the preparation of the business plan and budget for the next financial year. The trustees and relevant sub-committees continue to monitor and report on the risks at each meeting.

Objectives and activities

The objective of the CIO is supporting people with learning disabilities and autism to develop and grow as artists and individuals, find fulfilment through art, and be accepted and appreciated.

We value creativity, fun, individuality, community, ambition, and choice.

The objectives stated in the constitution are:

- 1. The relief of people with disabilities, in particular through the provision of facilities to enable and encourage people with disabilities to engage in creative and artistic pursuits; and
- 2. The advancement of education amongst people with disabilities, especially in the appreciation and practice of the arts.

Summary of the objects of the

We cater for artists with all types of learning disabilities, of all abilities and support needs.

Artbox London has been working with People with Learning Disabilities and Autism (PwLDA) in Islington and surrounding boroughs. We provide a varied programme of activities that provide opportunities for PwLDA to meet socially and explore art. Our main activities are workshops, openaccess studio sessions, exhibitions and trips to art galleries and museums.

Art workshops for PwLDA:

We run a weekly programme of art workshops in Islington, London for PwLDA to experience the therapeutic benefits and positive emotions generated by creating art. Our regular workshops are facilitated by workshop leaders who are trained and experienced in working with PwLDA. All of the workshops are social events, with approximately 7-10 PwLDA attending each session and working alongside each other, supported by 5-10 volunteers on a 1:1 or 1:2 basis depending on needs and preferences. In our collaborations with corporate, PwLDA have been running and teaching workshops for visitors. This has empowered the artists to build up their confidence levels and provided expose of PwLDA to a wider audience.

Open-access studio sessions:

In our London studio we run two open-access studio sessions per week which are open to all PwLDA who can work on their art independently. These sessions are supervised by a trained workshop leader with support from 1-2 volunteers.

Exhibitions:

Artbox London supports PwLDA to exhibit and sell their work through exhibitions, commissions and private sales. Selling their art provides the artists with a form on independently earned income that contributes to improving self-esteem. The exhibitions are well-attended with studio exhibitions attracting between 50-100 visitors, and large gallery exhibitions attracting 200-300 visitors. PwLDA and volunteers attend with their families and friends, and engage with members of the local community as wel as other people with a general interest in art, who may have limited experience of learning disabilities or autism.

Trips:

Artbox London run trips to galleries, museum and libraries in central London which range from small trips of 5 to larger groups of 20 including volunteers. The trips help inspire new art projects and people with PwLDA become familiar with arts and cultural venues, increasing their confidence in visiting these venues independently. They also increase the visibility of PwLDA within the community and in London's cultural centres. The trips are supported by volunteers and accessed via public transport, which again helps PwLDA to develop skills and confidence that enable them to feel comfortable accessing these venues independently.

Summary of the main activities undertaken for the public benefit in relation to these objects (include within this section the statutory declaration that trustees have had regard to the guidance issued by the Charity Commission on public benefit)

Additional details of objectives and activities (Optional information)

The charity's mission is to offer a space where adults with learning disabilities and autism can explore and discover art through workshops and trips, make lasting connections with others, and feel part of a community.

The charity's core aims are:

- To provide meaningful opportunities and experiences to help PwLDA acquire and develop artistic, social and employment skills.
- 2. To increase the social connections of PwLDA by providing opportunities to work with and alongside other artists with learning disabilities and autism, studio visitors, volunteers and professional artists.
- 3. The raise public awareness of the high quality of art by PwLDA, and their talents and abilities, and to increase the visibility and integration of PwLDA in the community and particularly in arts and cultural settings.

Artbox London currently works with 40 volunteers from our dedicated studio space in Islington. Approximately one third of our volunteers are students and are looking to work in the arts or in community and social care. Other volunteers come from a range of professions and backgrounds but all are looking to get involved in their local community.

The Trustees confirm that they have referred to the guidance contained in the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit when reviewing the Charity's aims and objectives and in planning future activities.

You may choose to include further statements, where relevant, about:

- policy on grantmaking;
- policy programme related investment;
- contribution made by volunteers.
